Mark joined VIMANA In 2014 as the Head of Finance. He was promoted to VP of Finance in 2016 and currently serves in that role.

Mark brings over 25 years of multidisciplinary finance and accounting, budgeting, planning, and corporate development experience from large corporations and multiple successful start-ups. He is committed to creating value by providing operational and strategic guidance to CEOs and senior leadership teams to build global businesses and accelerate growth.

Mark currently leads VIMANA's finance function - financial planning and analysis, accounting and control, forecasting and budgeting, reporting, and compliance. He plays a strategic role in business transformation, going beyond managing the company's finance and establishing core financial processes to guiding the path for growth while balancing immediate value and contributing to long-term objectives. Mark has a hands-on approach and is well-integrated into the day-to-day business. He focuses on simplicity, clear communication of risks and opportunities, and collaboration with the leadership team for solution execution. He augments his extensive operational background with strategic insight into the venture capital industry and M&A activity to help drive the fundraising process.

Before VIMANA, Mark served as the Chief Accounting Officer for Citadel Investment Group's reinsurance strategy, responsible for financial reporting, tax, treasury, finance operations, regulatory reporting, and audit execution. In addition, Mark was responsible for negotiating traditional and structured credit facility agreements and worked closely with the CEO to access private capital sources for the reinsurance business. He has also previously held finance and accounting roles at Torus Insurance, Schrodgers, Enron, Fidelity, and Ernst & Young.

Mark is a Chartered Accountant (CA) and holds a BSc in Mathematics from Edinburgh University. He lives in Victoria, Canada, with his wife.
